The School of Law of UCLan Cyprus is pleased to announce the online intensive course on "Good neighbourliness in Europe in times of threats" in the CRoLEV Intensive Course Series entitled "The Rule of Law and European Values in the modern ages".

This comprehensive 10-hour course is a combination of synchronous and asynchronous sessions that look at the interpretation and application of the principle of good neighbourliness in International and EU law. In particular, participants will be familiarised with the legal framework of the good neighbourliness principle in international law through explanation of its legal basis and the rights and obligations of states stemming from it as well as fields where the principle is applicable. This intensive course looks further at the functioning of the principle in international and EU law, focusing on two different legal contexts – on the functioning of the principle in relations between countries at war and in EU interstate relations.

The titles of the session are the following:

- Origins of the principle of good neighbourliness in international law: nature, legal basis and contents (asynchronous)
- Application of the principle of good neighbourliness in international law (asynchronous)
- Good neighbourliness in EU law: meaning and general application (asynchronous)
- Russia and Ukraine in the light of the principle of good neighbourliness: EU perspective (25 April 2024, 14:00-16:00 EEST)
- Migrant crisis in the light of the principle of good neighbourliness: EU perspective (26 April 2024, 14:00-16:00 EEST)
